Calling All Artists and Those Who Appreciate Them

by Patricia MacKellar

I hope the paint brushes of fine artists living in Del-managed condominiums have been busy, for come May, we will present our 8th Annual Calling All Artists Art Show. We would be delighted to have the return of our regulars and to welcome new artists to display their works. Our art show, not a sale, nor a craft show, has limited space, therefore early registration is highly recommended. Please turn to page 9 to apply.

Not only are we impressed with the works displayed each year, we also admire the attitude of the artists such as the marvelous group from Walden Pond who spend so much of their time learning and exploring different techniques. Then, there is Shamsi Shahrokhi, a wonderful artist who has also been a regular exhibitor and who last year came up with a technique totally unlike anything I had seen her do before. Shamsi now applies heat to paper, and she can best describe what she has developed herself. So, do come to the show and speak with her and the other most accommodating and talented people, such as world acclaimed Antoine Gaber. These delightful artists are always happy to share their ideas with you. You don't have to be an artist to attend the show. You are most welcome to admire the works and perhaps enjoy a spot of tea. You can gather information from the artists if you wish to make a purchase privately sometime after the show. I myself am a proud owner of a Stanley, a Pompili and a Dakessian! We are including a collage of photos taken at last year's show to give you an idea of the wonderful works that await your visit. We hope to see you there!
